4 December 1946

3. The prison is surrounded by a brick wall approximately 12 feet high. The enclosure within the wall is approximately 15 acres. There is one main entrance. The gate is built in a sort of sally port fashion, typical of many German prisons. The prison itself is a red brick T-shaped structure. The prison grounds are divided into five yards, and a number of small buildings are built against the walls and several other small buildings are in the yards. As you know, between 600 and 700 prisoners were transferred from this place to make room for the seven convicted war criminals.
